President	Rasmus Hylleberg
Secretary General	Niels Lund

Brief History

The Danish Youth Council was founded as a non-governmental organisation in 1940 by democratic youth associations. They wanted to avoid a situation where young Danes might be attracted to the totalitarian ideas that had become a very present part of Danish society under foreign occupation. After the war, DUF was invited by leading politicians to join a national youth commission, a venture that eventually led to the introduction of a youth policy in Denmark. Since then, DUF has maintained this role as a common talking partner with the public authorities. The focus in our activities remains democratic values and the democratisation of youth - from the small local associations in Denmark to the international scene in the Baltic Sea Region, the European Union and the United Nations.

Objectives

The purpose of DUF is to be a common representative of organised nation-wide democratic children and youth work in Denmark, and as part of this, to represent the participating organisations in negotiations with the public authorities, institutions and other organisations in Denmark and abroad.

Through its activities, DUF tries to help solve the problems of youth and promote solidarity and mutual understanding among young people and their organisations.
